HOW TO MEASURE CORRECTLY

To determine the correct size, take the following measurements with a measuring tape by guiding the measuring tape once around the respective part of the body. It is easier and more precise if you have a second person help you. Make sure that the measuring tape does not constrict when measuring or is guided too loosely around the body. If you are between two sizes, we recommend the larger size if you prefer a casual cut and the smaller size if you like to wear your clothes very tight and form-fitting.

Body Height: Measure barefoot from floor to crown while standing upright and ideally with your back to the wall.

Chest Circumference: Measure the chest circumference at the widest point while standing upright and with your arms hanging down.

Waist Circumference: Measure the narrowest circumference above the navel while standing.
